Lesson 29

The Story of Hagar and Ishmael - Genesis 16

Genesis 16

<sup>1</sup> Now Sarai, Abram's wife, had borne him no children. But she had an Egyptian slave named Hagar; <sup>2</sup> so she said to Abram, 'The Lord has kept me from having children. Go, sleep with my slave; perhaps I can build a family through her.'

Abram agreed to what Sarai said. <sup>3</sup> So after Abram had been living in Canaan ten years, Sarai his wife took her Egyptian slave Hagar and gave her to her husband to be his wife. <sup>4</sup> He slept with Hagar, and she conceived.

When she knew she was pregnant, she began to despise her mistress. <sup>5</sup> Then Sarai said to Abram, 'You are responsible for the wrong I am suffering. I put my slave in your arms, and now that she knows she is pregnant, she despises me. May the Lord judge between you and me.'

<sup>6</sup> 'Your slave is in your hands,' Abram said. 'Do with her whatever you think best.' Then Sarai mistreated Hagar; so she fled from her.

<sup>7</sup> The angel of the Lord found Hagar near a spring in the desert; it was the spring that is beside the road to Shur.

<sup>8</sup> And he said, 'Hagar, slave of Sarai, where have you come from, and where are you going?'

'I'm running away from my mistress Sarai,' she answered.

<sup>9</sup> Then the angel of the Lord told her, 'Go back to your mistress and submit to her.' <sup>10</sup> The angel added, 'I will increase your descendants so much that they will be too numerous to count.'

<sup>11</sup> The angel of the Lord also said to her:

'You are now pregnant and you will give birth to a son.

You shall name him Ishmael,

for the Lord has heard of your misery.

<sup>11</sup> He will be a wild donkey of a man;

his hand will be against everyone and everyone's hand against him,

and he will live in hostility toward all his brothers.'

<sup>13</sup> She gave this name to the Lord who spoke to her: 'You are the God who sees me,' for she said, 'I have now seen the One who sees me.' <sup>14</sup> That is why the well was called Beer Lahai Roi; it is still there, between Kadesh and Bered.

<sup>15</sup> So Hagar bore Abram a son, and Abram gave the name Ishmael to the son she had borne. <sup>16</sup> Abram was eighty-six years old when Hagar bore him Ishmael." Genesis 16:1-16 [NIV]

Following God's promises and covenant with Abram, we find him and Sarai continuing to live their lives near Mamre, modern day Hebron, but Sarai has still not had a child for Abram. Her decisions in the days ahead, and those of Abram and Hagar, are all key factors in this lesson's study. No less than thirty-eight verses, in chapters sixteen, seventeen, and twenty-one, tell us that the story of Hagar and Ishmael is an important one, or God would not have devoted so many verses to these events (Genesis 16, 17:18-26 and Genesis 21:8-20). Beginning in this chapter, Abraham will become the father of the three largest world religions: Judaism, Christianity, and Islam. These three religions will stem from the two sons that he will father—Ishmael and Isaac. However, only one of these sons will receive the promises of God, as we will discover in our study.

I should point out that many critics dispute the ages of Abram and Sarai that are cited in the Bible. Much debate continues, as mentioned in previous lessons. I recommend reading Dr. Craig Olson's paper, "How Old was Father Abraham?" for a different perspective on this subject. As I have mentioned previously, for our study, we are going to take the Bible literally for these ages and study them from that perspective.

From our study of Abram, Sarai, and Hagar, one important lesson jumps out at me, and I hope it does to you as well. Specifically, I am referring to the importance of waiting on the Lord and not taking matters into our own hands. I think the KJV says it best in Isaiah 40:31, "but they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles, they shall run and not be weary, and they shall walk and not faint." In Jeremiah 29:11 God says, "For I know the plans I have for you," declares the Lord, "plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future." When we decide what our future should be, or when we worry about tomorrow rather than trusting in the Lord each day, we fall into trouble and lose our way; we wander off the narrow path, just as Sarai did in this lesson's scripture.

However, if we trust in the Lord and pray as the Psalmist prayed, "Direct my footsteps according to your word; let no sin rule over me." [NIV]; then Jesus will become our full-time guide, leading us in paths of righteousness and keeping us from harm so that we may prosper in his kingdom.

Commit this week to trusting in Jesus. In Matthew 22:37, Jesus teaches us to "love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind." Let's commit to do that this week, so that we too can avoid the mistakes of Sarai and be a blessing to someone each day.

Have a blessing-filled week!

In Christ,

Wes
